Forecast for Tuesday 12 Nov 2024

Weather: Rather cold on Tuesday with clear skies allowing for plenty of sunny spells. A dry but increasingly hazy as a veil of high cloud fills the skies, with low cloud thickening into the afternoon. As the evening draws in, patchy fog will start to develop in the valleys once more.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 95%

Low cloud and visibility: Early morning valley fog and patchy low cloud will soon lift bringing widely clear skies in the morning. Cloud thickening in the afternoon will sit comfortably above the hill tops. Excellent visibility is expected during the day with extensive views from the peaks of surrounding mountains, though some haze on lower slopes may obscure distant hills.

Meteorologist's View

Excellent hill walking conditions, although it will feel rather cold on the tops in the light northerly breeze, and in the valleys when sheltered from the sun. Consider bringing additional layers.
